MAN WHO SOLD LITTLE A DEGREE IN TROUBLE

when a protest against the use of the name by Farr was entered. Among the institutions which Farr is said to have conducted at various times are the Omaha University, the Oklahoma University, the Chattanooga College of Law, the Nashville College of Law, the Nashville College, the National College of Law, and later the American College of Law, the Washington University, the George Washington University and the University of Washington.

More than 2000 men and women have received "degrees" from these so-called colleges and universities, if credence may be placed in the statements of former associates. From all that can be learned, the enterprising Dr. Farr collected from $5 to $10 apiece for each diploma, neatly framed, bearing the legend "LL. D." A sketch of Farr, in a "year book" issued by himself, describes the young man in this modest language:

"In appearance he is tall and stately, being of the blond type, having blue eyes, light brown hair, fair complexion and fine, well cut features; is about 6 feet in height, weighs 180 pounds, is erect in stature, possessing a fine, manly physique and good address; is fond of music, reading, amusements and loves the beautiful, the true and the good. He is a young lawyer of prepossessing qualities, sterling worth, irreproachable character, profound judgment, a wise and efficient counsellor, with excellent business ability; an able writer, a conscientious law instructor, a deep thinker and an entertaining platform lecturer; having a fascinating disposition, he has a tact for making friends; his ideals of honesty and integrity are high, and he does not hesitate in doing what he believes to be honorable and right, even at the cost of losing many friends."
